Street Dance January - February 2012

This six week street dance workshop was an extremely entertaining session to be involved in and was appreciated by the young people, especially those who did not miss one session and were committed to work hard to put on the best performance they could deliver to their parents at the end of the six week workshop. This club had a mixed number of girls and boys which worked well when putting together certain parts of the dance routines. The instructor Leigh had a great knowledge and dance foundation, especially of this particular dance style and built up an extremely good rapport with the young people in the short time she was at the Skatepark. The young people seemed to look up to her and she was very enthusiastic to helping individuals out at break time if they wanted to practise some of their routine.

The young people were consistent in terms of attendance and committed to learning new street dance routines. Learning a full routine not only became an aspiration after the six week programme but a reality as the young people put on their own performance for the parents implementing many different styles within their routine. The parents were extremely proud of their achievements along with the youth workers and I believe the young people even surprised themselves at how well the performance turned out. This is why I believe this workshop was a success as the young people did match the workshops objectives and the projects aims as a whole but most importantly enjoyed themselves whilst doing so.
