

Art Workshop Report

22nd Nov – 20th Dec 2010

Young people had opportunity to design and create several pieces of art each week to take home. They were required to work together, share equipment and space and learn new skills in art and design in the process. Having something of good quality to take home and show off improves self esteem and confidence.

Each week saw young people use a different kind of art material to craft good quality pieces of work. There were activities that we had never run before so even those who had attended a previous art course learnt something new this time around.

The youth team observed noticeable improvement in art and design skill and keenness to try new activities in most young people. Some of the young people who had not attended many events at the youth clubs were shy at first but came out of their shell as the course developed.

The young people showed that they were proud of what they had produced and were keen to show this off to parents, friends and staff members.
