Magic & Circus Skills - April 2011

The Magic and Circus Skills club encompassed traditional magic tricks, balloon modelling and LED light tricks with the Magician Harry Mudini. There were between 13 – 16 children who attended each of the six sessions.

Aims and Objectives

The objective of this club was to provide opportunities for the young people to develop new skills through the sessions with Magician Harry Mudini. The objectives for this club also included developing interpersonal skills as well as building confidence and self esteem.

New skills – I feel that young people all learned many skills that they didn't previously have. They were all very interested throughout the sessions and in the show they all performed their tricks extremely well.

Interpersonal skills – throughout the course the young people all got on with each other really well. They supported and encouraged one and other throughout the sessions and cheered on each other during the show.

Confidence and Self Esteem – the young people were supported into developing their confidence and self esteem through performing at the show and encouraging each other.

Their rising confidence was evidenced at the show in week 6 as the young people were all excited and keen to show off their tricks in front of their family and friends.

Week six was the show in the upstairs café, it was a great success. As you can see from the video the kids all had a great time showing their tricks to their friends and family. The show went so well, the young people, friends and families were all very happy at the end of the night.

All feedback received from the young people, friends and family was very positive. I believe that this club was so successful because it was fresh, exciting and different.
